Dr. Lynne Schopper
GRADUATES WITH HONORS FROM ESTEEMED COSMETIC DENTISTRY PROGRAM

Chicago IL, June 2007— The Hornbrook Group announced today that Dr. Lynne Schopper has graduated with honors from its distinguished national training program. The hands-on program in cosmetic dentistry focuses on treating and understanding how to treat complex cases as well as ensuring predictable aesthetic results for their patients. Only 1% of dentists nationwide graduate from this type of advanced training institute.

“For the first time ever, people are going to the dentist because they want to—not because they need to,” said Dr. Schopper. “Nothing makes a bigger or faster impression than a person’s smile. In fact, a beautiful smile can be a person’s biggest asset. It can affect how they feel about themselves—and how others perceive them,” she added. “The advanced training that allows us to predictably ensure a long term result with the materials we use to enhance smiles should be required training for every dentist.”

Research by leading dental organizations shows more patients are reporting pain, headaches, muscle splinting, popping and clicking of their jaw joint that requires treatment to resolve these symptoms.

“Now we are able to treat not only the patient’s aesthetic concerns, but also we are able to resolve life long pain that patients have experienced due to an imbalance or malfunction of the way their teeth come together,” explained Dr. Schopper.
